THE SPIDER AND THE FLY.

Words by COBB WEBB.

Music by EASTMAN.

Allegretto.

- cieve it On the fa- ces that we meet when passing by. There's a charming lit- tle la- dy, and she
- side her, While the other flies go buzzing round and round! Oh, these lit- tle lumps of su- gar, they are smiles on you, You think she is your own for - ev - er - more; But look out, for she's a sweet, sweet, sweet, But then you know they come so aw - ful high! While you're buzzing round to

"spi- der" and she's catching lit - tle "flies," While she meets you, smiling sweetly, at the door!
find them you will sure - ly lose your wings, Then you'll think about the spi- der and the fly!

CHORUS.

Tempo di Valse.

"Won't you walk in - to my par-lor," Says the spi-der to the poor lit-tle fly,

"Come and sit down in the par-lor, And don't you be so shy! For it is the coz - i - est par-lor," Says the spi-der, with a sweet lit-tle sigh;

Smile, if you may, but you can't get a - way, She's got you, Master Fly!.....
